ON TOP THE PYRAMID.

Georgia is at the top of the pyramid of southern prosperity this year. The September cotton condition report of the United States department of agriculture emphatically verifies the reiterated predictions of The Constitution to that effect. Our statement was based originally upon the slump in condition in the western half of the cotton belt being sufficient to hold prices high and stable; upon the condition in the eastern half being near enough to normal to insure unworried prosperity to that entire range; upon the fact that Georgia's condition led the crop of the eastern half, the volume of her crop being larger. From this unusual combination it was easy to forecast unprecedented prosperity for Georgia, and for Atlanta, the commercial capital of the national cotton zone. The September government report confirms this reasoning. The 10-year average of cotton for the cotton belt is 72. Georgia's condition in the September report is 74, and it is the only state in the entire cotton belt that is a factor in the situation which is not below the 10-year average. The condition average for the entire belt in the September report is 64.1, as against Georgia's 72. These cumulative facts spell for Georgia, and Atlanta, a bumper crop of prosperity. The main thing for capitalists, merchants and farmers now to do is to prepare for it.

THE TARIFF PLEDGE KEPT.

With the completion of tariff revision the democratic party has redeemed the first and one of the most important of its pledges to the country. The task, monumental in scope and intricate in detail, has been accomplished with a dispatch and a sincerity not matched by similar legislation since the civil war. The master craftsmanship of President Wilson, Chairman Underwood and Chairman Simmons has collaborated to the end that the nation is given a new tariff law for the first time in many decades free of jobs and subterfuges, having straight to the line of honesty and enacted in the interests of the whole people rather than any section or class. In these respects the new tariff law will be found notable. So far as is now visible to the unbiased vision, the makers of the tariff have played no favorites. They have regarded the old and disreputable trading game of the republicans. They have indulged in no wild vagaries and no revolutionary devices, but they have given the nation what it demanded in the reduction of schedules and in the freer play for competition and the ultimate lowering of the high cost of living. Additionally, they have included in the federal income tax, framed upon equitable principles and adapted to restore to the treasury whatever deficit may be created by the lower revenue-producing power of the schedules. The passage of this first acid test of the Wilson administration and of the constructive ability of democratic leadership. Both have measured up admirably. The schisms and the desertions so confidently predicted by the republicans have failed to materialize. The apostasy anticipated by the non-partisan pessimists has been conspicuous by its absence. The force and the coherence of the president's leadership have been adequately proved. The democratic party has survived the first drastic test in a manner which gives promise of its ability to negotiate whatever hazards lie in the future. The country as a whole is prepared for the new tariff. Whatever effect it may produce has long ago been discounted. The winners and the losers are now situated at their true worth. Optimism has the saddle. Prosperity commands every prospect. The first noteworthy achievement of the Wilson administration will value in an era of national welfare that may well mark new records in the country's history.

A WELCOME VISITOR.

Atlanta as well as the whole of the southern division of the railway mail service has an interest in the presence here today the Hon. A. H. Stephens, the general superintendent of that vitally important branch of the postoffice department. Superintendent Stephens is an appointee of the Wilson administration, chosen because of his long experience in the railway mail service, his expert proficiency and his broad and liberal politics. He is making a tour of the country to familiarize himself at first hand with the faults and needs of the service. His visit here today has to do with that purpose.

By making the trip Superintendent Stephens will be the honor guest at a smoker of the local chapter of the Railway Mail association. He will tell them what he expects to do for the country generally and the southern division particularly. He has come bringing promise of relief none too soon. The entire nation suffered from the blighting policy of so-called "economy" inaugurated under Hitchcock. But it was upon the southern division that the brutal fell, making it seem at times as though this part of the country had been strangled off Hitchcock as the "root" for his pluck-penny program. Under the change of administration and the influence of Mr. Stephens, the division has just begun to show symptoms of gradual recovery. Old conditions are too well known to need more than a scant recital. Under Hitchcockism the service was demoralized from the ground up. The old routes, established with a view to efficiency and dispatch, such, for illustration, as the one between Atlanta and New Orleans, were cut up into bits, instead of being conducted as through routes. Mail cars were filled in size. Mail clerks were lessened in number and forced to work overtime in cramped quarters. The inevitable result was the abolition of old transfer points, and the establishment of new ones, the consequence of which was seen in vast stacks of mails left over at transfer points, undistributed, and entailing a loss of time in delivery of anywhere from one to two days. This breakdown occurred with mails coming into and going out of the south. The destruction of the esprit de corps of the clerks under the hammer of the nation was a calamity that cannot be too deeply regretted.

Superintendent Stephens already is particularly anxious to see these conditions in the southern division as they are, and to improve more each day. Improvement already is visible. More will be forthcoming, gradually, until the service is restored to the chaos bequeathed by Hitchcock. It is to be expected that even an official of Mr. Stephens' capacity can't afford to edit the mails for years. But he is making a message of encouragement to a long harassed section.

WHILE FORTUNE BECKONS.

Two incidents, one local and the other national, transpired last week to give prominence to the great opportunity that Georgia has. The first was the receipt in Atlanta of the first shipment of beef from the Argentine. This was part of a lot recently sent to this country from the Argentine and reference to which was then made by The Constitution. Reports run that the quality of the imported beef was better in fact than that raised in our country. Scientific refrigeration has nullified distance, and it is possible that from now on Argentine beef will be a stiff competitor of American beef. The point is that under normal conditions the bringing of South American beef to Georgia ought to be in the nature of bringing coal to Newcastle, a business that naturally has been neglected. It is said that the Indians have developed a decided aptitude to cattle-graze. Uncle Sam hopes to take to break the beef business, or at least the one that is now on the way, by giving his red wards a new occupation.

THE NEW TARIFF LAW.

There is no reason why a pound of beef should be imported into this country from the Argentine, and there is no reason why Georgia should not produce for the market states as good a grade of beef as can be produced anywhere. Every cent that Georgia loses in the beef business is a cent wasted, as is every cent sent to the market. With the selection of beef steers, and their breeding to native cattle, the state will soon be producing a beef of superior quality. The corn, the forage crop, the grazing grounds and the climate are here. All that is needed is the endeavor, and such encouragement from buyers as will make beef collateral for credit at least a partial equality with cotton.

THE NEW TARIFF LAW.

Superintendent Stephens already is particularly anxious to see these conditions in the southern division as they are, and to improve more each day. Improvement already is visible. More will be forthcoming, gradually, until the service is restored to the chaos bequeathed by Hitchcock. It is to be expected that even an official of Mr. Stephens' capacity can't afford to edit the mails for years. But he is making a message of encouragement to a long harassed section.

PLAYERS MUST NOT PEDDLE NAMES

National Commission Will Permit Stories if Written at Supervision of the Player Himself

Chicago, October 2.—Baseball players who write their own newspaper stories of the world's or other post season series may do so with the approval of the National Commission, President Johnson, of the American League, said last night upon his return from brief vacation in Michigan.

Players who lend their names for a moment's consideration to be signed to articles written by others probably will not be asked to appear in any of such series, Mr. Johnson asserted. He did not favor the suggestion recently made by the National Commission, to call off the world's series from the players' control and into that of their names.

The purpose of the commission is not to let players continue to extract money in any legitimate way," said President Johnson, "but to stop the faking which is bound to do baseball a serious injury unless it is curbed. "If any player wants to write a bona fide story for a newspaper during the world's series, let him go to the headquarters of the National commission after the game. We will furnish an expert stenographer, to whom he can dictate his story. The typist will make two copies, one of which the player can send to the newspaper, the other we will keep for comparison. If the paper publishes the story as the player prepares it there will be no objection.

"I have written a letter to Manager Mack of the Philadelphia team, who will dispose of the tangle over Collins and Baker. If Mack wants to play the Giants without Collins or Baker on the infield, he will have that opportunity if they persist in permitting their names to be signed to articles which they do not prepare."

President Johnson will leave Sunday for New York and if possible will take this matter up personally with some of the players.

UMPIRES NAMED FOR PIRATES-NAPS GAMES

President Lynch assigned but one umpire for the games and Dreyer appealed to President Herrmann, of the National commission. He submitted the question to the various club owners and this afternoon replies had been received from four, each favorable to the appointment of two umpires.
